BEAUTIES IN OAK AND ASH

A Fine Line of Furniture Just Received at Hinman's.

Housekeepers Can Furnish Their Homes Beautifully and at Very Small Cost.

Last week O. C. Hinman, the furniture dealer of this place received, an entire car load of fine furniture of the latest style. He is now showing highly polished tables in quartered oak and ash, bed room suits of different design and at a variety of prices, sideboards which would grace the most elegantly appointed dining room and cheaper ones for less pretentious homes, book cases for the library in handsome finish with adjustable shelves to accommodate the handy duodecimo or the ponderous quarto, chairs in almost endless variety for the parlor, library, sitting room, dining room, or kitchen and some very neat designs for the office.

Besides these there are dozens of niceness which must be seen to be appreciated and which every housekeeper knows how to make use of in the furnishing and decorating of a room.

The furniture is all of the latest patterns and design, some of it being elegantly carved and polished while some is of plainer design and finish and, of course, cheaper but it is all cheap when material, quality and finish are taken into consideration.

A visit to the store which is at the corner of Main and Yankee streets will amply repay any house owner or house keeper in the county and Mr. Hinman is always glad to show his goods.

In addition to the car load of furniture which he has just received he has and always keeps in stock a full line of wall paper, mattresses, springs, pillows and many other articles needed by the house furnisher, all of which he sells cheap for cash, having found it a better plan to make small profits and get cash for his goods than sell on credit at larger profits and be obliged to wait for his money. Call at the store and look at his stock whether you want to purchase or not.

In short, if there is anything in the house furnishing line you need, the place to go and get it, and get it for what it is worth, is at Hinman's. He keeps a fine line of carpet samples and will get anything in the carpet line from the cheapest to the finest on short notice.

You cannot afford to neglect a visit to Hinman's if you are going to furnish a house; buy a new parlor set or only invest a few dollars in furniture.
